Bio

Patrick joined the Commercial and Civil Litigation Team at Timoney Knox in 2024. Patrick started his legal career as a civil trial attorney, representing clients in a wide variety of matters, including personal injury, immigration, products liability, and workers compensation matters.

Patrick then moved into the fields of commercial and construction litigation. He represented owners, contractors, and subcontractors in both commercial and residential construction cases. Patrick's practice also included corporate litigation, shareholder disputes, as well as zoning and easement disputes.

Patrick is an experienced litigator, having litigated jury and non-jury trials as well as contractual and construction defect cases in AAA arbitration.

Patrick, his wife, and three young children live in Delaware County. They are avid Philadelphia sports fans and enjoy spending time with their extended family who reside in the area or getting outdoors with their German Short-Haired Pointer.
